MAN DROWNS AT GRASS LAKE IN CHANNEL

Overloaded Boat Capsizes;
Antioch Firemen
Find Body

Another victim was added to Lake county's long list of drownings Saturday night when William Willer, 21 years old, of 3100 Drake avenue, Chicago, lost his life in Grass Lake Channel near Fox river, while his five companions swam to safety.

Due to darkness and rain Willer's body was not recovered until Sunday morning when Antioch firemen called to the scene located it. At the inquest held at Strang's funeral home in Antioch, Coroner J. L. Taylor again warned of overloading boats, which had been the direct cause of young Willer's death.

Willer and five others had rented a cottage on the channel and arrived there about eight o'clock. They came to Antioch where they remained until 11 o'clock when they started to return to the cottage. It was raining when they prepared to cross the 25 foot channel. Midway in the channel the burden of six men in the small craft caused it to capsize. Willer could not swim at all and the others could swim but were poor swimmers they testified at the inquest.

The coroner's jury found that drowning was accidental due to overloading of the boat.

Others with Willer were Jerry Dressler, 3330 North Drake avenue, Stanley Lusek, same address, Charles Frymark, 4511 Mead avenue, Eugene Leszaski, 3525 School street and Walter Autosz, 3532 Melrose avenue, all Chicago.

LEGION ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR ARMISTICE OBSERVANCE HERE

Squad Will Fire Salute at 11 O'Clock; Sittler,
Sexton, Speakers

Led by the American Legion in ceremonies in observance of Armistice day here Sunday, Antioch citizens will face east in silent prayer at 11 o'clock and the firing squad will fire a salute in honor of the memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice in the service of their country.

According to plans announced today by Commander Klass the Legion men accompanied by the firing squad in charge of Commander A. Mapletorpe, will march from their headquarters to the corner of Main and Lake streets shortly before 11 o'clock. At the hour, the Legionnaires, firing squad and all citizens will face east for one minute. After the firing squad fires the salute, the marchers will proceed in a body to will hear the Armistice day address by Rev. Loyal V. Sittler, pastor of the M. E. church. The public is invited and should attend this ceremony and the service following.

Major Sexton Speaks Monday. Armistice day service for the schools will be observed Monday at two o'clock at the Antioch high school auditorium where Major Grover Sexton will be heard in a stirring address on Americanism. Major Sexton is one of the outstanding speakers of the American Legion and both young and old will profit from hearing his address.

One of the major activities of the American Legion is inculcating in the minds of the young correct ideas of true patriotism and citizenship—real Americanism, and it is for this purpose that programs like that to be heard here Monday afternoon are arranged for school children, and to which people of all ages are invited. The Legion believes that no American child should grow up to enjoy the freedom and opportunity in this country without thought of the thousands who have given their lives to perpetuate it. This belief is shared by all right thinking citizens.

The general public is invited to attend the program, and Antioch business places will be asked to close for two hours, from two to four o'clock, according to Commander Klass.

Local Instructor To Judge Harvard Fair

C. L. Kuttli, local instructor of vocational agriculture, appears as one of the judges of farm products at the 13th annual Harvard community fair which is to be held Friday and Saturday of this week at the high school grounds in Harvard.

LEGION PREPARES FOR ARMISTICE DINNER - DANCE

Committee Expects Great Crowd Saturday at the Pasadena Gardens

A great crowd is expected to attend the Antioch Legion Armistice dinner-dance at Pasadena Gardens Saturday night, according to the committee in charge of the affair which is making preparations to entertain one of the largest crowds ever in attendance at this annual dance.

Serving on the committee on arrangements with Chairman George Garland are Clarence Shultis, Harry Jensen, Tom Sullivan and Charles McCorkle, while Post Commander Otto S. Klass is giving every assistance possible to the men in charge.

Dine Any Time

Preparations are being made to serve a fine dinner to guests at any time during the evening beginning at eight o'clock, so that attendants may eat early or late as they choose. Fine music for dancing will be provided, and there will be a door prize. Other amusements will be provided so that all who attend will be assured of an enjoyable evening. Tickets for dinner and dancing are only 50 cents per person, and this fact together with the Legion men's well known reputation as entertainers ought to fill Bruno Rojewsky's Pasadena Gardens to overflowing Saturday night.

BURGLARS RANSACK ANTIOCH MILL

Smash Door, Loot Safe But Find No Money
There

Burglars who last night ransacked the safe at the Antioch Mill left empty handed. They found no cash in the safe or elsewhere about the office, although from appearances this morning a fairly thorough search had been made.

Forcing entry through a back door the burglars proceeded to the office where they found the safe unlocked. There they found insurance papers and other documents of value only to the milling company. The safe is merely a protection against fire, according to George Wagner, manager of the mill. No cash is kept in it. The fact that it is unlocked saves crackmen the trouble of wrecking it and perhaps causing other damage.

This is the second time the mill has been entered by burglars within the last few weeks. Nothing was reported of the first attempt at burglary because officials believed they had clues that would lead to the identity of the guilty ones. Officials today declared they had no clues in connection with last night's attempted burglary.

Dr. and Mrs. L. John Zimmerman and family returned Sunday from a three weeks visit in Nebraska.

G.O.P. LEADERS REGARD RESULTS AS BIG VICTORY

BULLETIN

The election canvassing board may be balked in making a complete canvass of the votes cast in the county. The judges in precinct 22 of Waukegan sealed the tally sheets in with the ballots. A court order may be necessary before the bag can be opened. The bag containing the ballots cast in Round Lake had been left open before being delivered to the county clerk's office, it was charged. Indications are that in the event of contests many irregularities in voting and condition of the ballots will be disclosed.

While members of the election canvassing board are still poring through the poll books to determine the winners in Tuesday's election the filing of contest action by two candidates was deemed as certain.

Indications are that the canvass now in progress will not result in any material changes in the results. This means that no matter who receives the largest number of votes for sheriff or county clerk of the face of the findings of the canvassing board he will face a contest before being permitted to assume office.

Two Have Small Leads. Judging from unofficial figures issued this morning Lawrence Doolittle has a lead of 127 votes over Bart Tyrrell for the office of sheriff, while Russ Alford has a lead of 190 votes over the number cast for Lew Hendee.

There is a possibility that the official returns may increase the leads of the candidates to the extent that their opponents would accept them as too large to overcome, but this possibility is so remote that in all camps of the four candidates preparations are being made for a possible contest.

While the G. O. P. in Lake county came too close to doom for its own comfort, leaders of the party declare that the results at the polls on Tuesday was in reality an outstanding victory for them.

County Still Republican.

They point to the fact that Lake county was one of the few counties in the state that remained in the Republican ranks. They attribute the great vote cast for Democratic candidates as being due to the mistaken belief held by many that if the Republican party returns to power it would mean the end of federal relief and state relief or that it might affect home or farm loans.

But Republican leaders and other adherents of that party were given some anxious moments Tuesday night as the returns continued to roll in from all sections of the county with the Democratic candidates running neck and neck with their opponents. Often during the night returns would show one candidate to be leading and then the situation would show a reversal with the addition of figures from the next precinct to be counted.

Lawrence Doolittle retired at three o'clock Wednesday morning believing that he had lost by a total of 72 votes. A check in the morning disclosed that an error had been made in addition of unofficial returns and that a total of 100 straight Republican ballots had not been counted in one Libertyville precinct. This gave Doolittle a lead to 127 votes.

LIBERTY AND TYRANNY

The history of the world, since the dawn of civilization, portrays a never-ending battle between the forces of Liberty and Tyranny.

Tyranny is exemplified by such different theories as Monarchy, the Divine Right of Kings, Communism, Fascism. Liberty too has worn many faces from the time the Magna Charta was wrung from King John, down to the establishment of democracy as we know it now.

Today the forces of Tyranny have come into power in many great nations. They have subjected whole peoples to their will, using as their weapons terrorism, assassination, suppression of freedom of speech, freedom of action, freedom of worship.

Liberty is always won with blood and sacrifice, and the United States was no exception to the rule. There is no more inspiring chapter in history than that telling of the lives and works of those who founded and maintained this country—of Washington, Adams, Jefferson, Lincoln and the rest. Theirs is the spirit and the purpose which should govern the thoughts, actions and emotions of the American people today. No American citizen would willingly accept Tyranny, whatever its form—but there is grave danger that, in our eagerness to solve the perplexities of the present, we will give up rights and prerogatives that are essential to the preservation of a free people.

It makes little difference whether the individual is subjected to the dictatorship of kings or politicians. It makes little difference whether liberties are destroyed by law or by force of arms. If we, the American people, barter ancient principles for temporary benefits, the founders of the nation will have lived in vain.

DON'T WORRY ABOUT

THE FARMER'S FUTURE

There is much worry about the American farmer. Many believe that what seems to be his increasing dependence on governmental relief and aid, will weaken his traditional qualities of self-reliance and honest individualism.

A percentage of farmers is willing to depend upon political relief measures—but that percentage is very small. In all sections of the country, groups of farmers have banded together to fight their own battles and win their own victories. They regard relief as being purely temporary—a lift over a particularly bad place in the economic road. They have no intention of depending upon it for their future welfare.

These farmers constitute the memberships of genuine business organizations, which, through expert and experienced management, are applying proven business methods to farm problems. The question of supply and demand, of production and marketing methods, of foreign markets, of tariff walls and embargoes—in brief, everything that affects the farmer—engage their attention. They work with these problems, not for a day or a week or a year, or until another political party comes into power, but continuously, permanently. They are here to stay.

Those who have watched the co-ops grow and develop, have little to fear for the future of the progressive American farmer.

YOU PAY THE BILL

According to a recent survey, the total cost of government in the United States during 1934 will be about $17,000,000,000. Seven billion of this is being spent by the federal government, $2,000,000,000 by the states, and $8,000,000,000 by local governments.

In 1933, the total national income was slightly in excess of $40,000,000,000. Most economists believe that the 1934 figure will be about the same.

As a result, government spending for the current year will amount to 42 per cent of all the money we receive.

The fact that part of the expenditures are being made with the aid of bond issues, which will not have to be paid until some future date, does not affect the principle at stake. The main fact is that cost of government is reaching the point where it will exceed the ability of the public to pay. A substantial part of the cost of everything we buy is represented by taxes. Taxes are part of the cost of a glass of beer or a gallon of gas; of a fur coat or a pair of shoes, of a town-car or a coffee-pot. The manufacturer who makes an article, the middleman who distributes it, the dealer who sells it—all are heavily taxed, and each must pass his taxes on to the ultimate consumer—you.

It is to your interest, whether worker or employer, to demand that all branches of government cut expenses, precisely as businesses and individuals have been forced to do in order to survive.

AFTER ME—WHAT?

I am the public treasury. I must be kept under constant guard against looters and despoilers.

As never before I have been converted into a ponderous feed trough.

A veritable deluge is being poured into me, only to be seized upon and snatched up by a growing army of jostling, grasping, contending humanity.

The more I give, the louder they cry for MORE.

The FAT as well as the LEAN have deserted their own boards to come to feed their fill out of my generous hold.

There seems to be no end to their capacity. Their hunger is never appeased.

They give no thought that there might come a day when the food stream that feeds them may dwindle to a mere trickle.

Experience has taught me that that day will, and must, come.

Already I see signs of shrinkage in the flow. Will they be satisfied with less and less?

Will they be willing to return to their accustomed haunts and provide once more for their own means of support?

Or will they storm the fount, only to find it dry? Who, then, will be able to stay the furies?

What, then, will become of me?

If I am destroyed, what is there to replace me?

It is I speaking—the public treasury.—From the Utah Taxpayer.

The Pace Changes

With the vanished ox-cart went ox-cart methods of farm management. The tempo of farm life quickened. The farmer's time became more valuable. Now, like any other business man, he uses his telephone as part of his business equipment. And the farmer and his family need the telephone for social purposes for it is a home as well as a business telephone. The more isolated his farm, the more he owes his family the telephone's protection in case of fire, accident or sickness. Compared penny for penny with any other farm implement, the telephone is a bargain—the biggest bargain of them all!

Buildings Settle Unevenly

A world-famous example of a building settling unevenly because of an unsatisfactory soil foundation is the Leaning Tower of Pisa in Italy. This building started to settle unevenly while it was being built and has continued to settle ever since. That it started to settle while in course of construction some hundreds of years ago is indicated by the fact that efforts were made to correct the slant of the upper floors by building them higher on the sinking side. Even these upper floors on which correction was made are very much off level.

GEORGIE BLAKE was seeing Mabel Porter home from a Young People's Dramatic club rehearsal of "The Old Red Mill." His wreck of a car—the Iron Horse—shuddered as its racing motor split the quiet winter evening with anguished roars. They were parked before Mabel's house.

"Well, personally," Georgie was saying, "I can't see this Mortimer Jenks with a telescope."

"You couldn't," Mabel answered with a tinge of scorn. "Mortimer is a finished actor."

"Finished is right," Georgie growled. "He's terrible." The Iron Horse roared at the night as Georgie nursed the throttle.

"Who's he, I'd like to know, to get the best part in the whole show?"

"Mortimer is a true Thespian," Mabel retorted with dignity. "He's a born actor, and he attends an exclusive prep-school. But you should kick; you have one of the best parts."

"Sure," Georgie cried cynically, "I should kick. Do I get a chance to make love to you? Only twice and I get slapped both times. And by the way, when you start slapping, so easy. And remember this is a play and don't take those love scenes with this Mortimer so serious."

A light appeared in an upper window of Mabel's house, a signal which she quickly observed.

"Well, good-night, Georgie," she said with sweet womanly patience. "You mustn't be silly about all this."

"Silly?" Georgie yelled. "And you makin' love with a big sissy as I—"

Mabel stamped her foot. "Georgie Blake," she shouted, "I'll make love when and where and with whom I like!"

"Mabel!" A heavy masculine voice cleaved the night air. The moonlight gleamed on Mr. Porter's bald head in the upper window. "Mabel, send that idiot home and come in the house. It's after one o'clock."

"Yes, pater," Mabel called. There was a snort and the window slammed. "Pater!" Georgie crowed. "Oh, dear! Dear Mortimer Jenks! Hey, Mabel, are you crazy?"

"Well, at least, he's refined," Mabel screamed above the din.

"Sure he is," Georgie rejoined, "and when I swat him he'll be gratulated!"

"Ha!" Mabel scorned, drawing her overcoat about her in such a manner that it could be nothing but an ermine wrap. The Iron Horse roared away down the street flapping its fenders. The neighbors turned thankfully in their beds and went to sleep.

The last week of rehearsals Georgie boiled in oil. It was apparent to him that Mabel was going far out of her way to make "The Old Red Mill" a success. It was hard enough watching his girl, or the girl he hoped was his, making love with a sissy on a stage, but when she let the sissy see her home . . . Savagely Georgie planned revenge.

On the fateful night the town hall auditorium was packed to the doors. Mabel was lovely in a new gown and Mortimer Jenks hovered about her until Georgie's red hair stood on end.

The performance went successfully toward a sizzling third act. Mabel and Mortimer billed and cooed until Georgie was nearly bereft of his senses. Under the lash of his indignation he made his part so real the audience positively hated him and when Mortimer made his dramatic entrance to rescue Mabel from Georgie's clutches there was a shout of acclaim.

Silence settled on the house. Tense, the audience waited for the hero to settle the villain's hash. But although Georgie cringed before the triumphant and handsome Mortimer, he was gritting to himself, "I'll do it, by heck! I'll do it!"

Mortimer kissed Mabel and then advanced to Georgie. "Do you admit defeat?" he thundered with deserving insolence.

Every head turned toward Georgie. It was his cue to mutter, "Curses, never!" make an attempt to escape and be overpowered by Mortimer. Instead, his voice snarled to the farthest seat an exultant line that wasn't in the script.

"Come and get it, Lollypop!"

He shot a straight hard left to Mortimer's nose. He crossed with his right, but in his excitement and anxiety he missed by a foot. There was a howl from the audience. Mortimer Jenks was everywhere at once. Georgie did his best, but he was no match for all the fists he saw before him. A thousand stars rained across his vision and the curtain came down to thunderous applause.

Georgie changed over quickly and made an unobtrusive exit. He was lame and sore in a hundred places. His jaw hurt like fury.

"Georgie, you were grand!"

The moon was behind a cloud and Mabel stood there looking almost like Sarah Bernhardt, offering gifts.

"Thanks," Georgie mumbled through bruised lips. "Come on and I'll see you home."

"No, thank you," Mabel spoke from the heights of her dramatic success. "Mortimer is seeing me home in his Strutz Eight."

"What?" "Yes, Mortimer is the eastern pre-school boxing champion and the pater wants to meet him."

"Ow!"

"What did you say?" she asked dreamily.

"Nothing," Georgie growled. "My jaw cracked!"

"Everlasting Punishment" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 4.

The Golden Text was: "Whoso diggeth a pit shall fall therein: and he that rolleth a stone, it will return upon him" (Proverbs 26:27).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap" (Galatians 6:7).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "A knowledge of evil was never the essence of divinity or manhood. . . . Error excludes itself from harmony. Sin is its own punishment" (p. 537).

The blade is hooked, heavily rusted and measures 30 inches from hilt to tip.

Stage Show to Be Presented at Genesee

Another delightful stage show consisting of five star acts of vaudeville coming direct from Chicago's leading theatres will be presented at the Genesee Theatre in Waukegan Sunday, Nov. 11th.

London to Get Hoot After Kenosha Visit

After his personal appearance engagement in Kenosha for one day only—Tuesday, Nov. 13, at the Gateway Theatre, Hoot Gibson, and his beautiful little co-star, Miss June Gale, will leave for London, England, where they will make a thrill movie for British Warners Studios.

"I'm glad I had a chance to make a personal appearance tour before going abroad," Hoot explained. "I've been in all parts of the United States in every sort of vehicle except an auto. I've always wanted to 'see America first' by auto, and this tour gives me the chance to meet my fans."

Hoot will meet at least two of his war-time buddies from an A. E. F. tank battalion while in Kenosha. The hero dare-devil of scores of movies says his two local buddies out-did in the war anything he's ever done on the screen. He wouldn't give their names in advance. "I want the pleasure of surprising them by walking in, and socking them over the head with a roll of sausage, which is the last memory I had of them after the armistice. We'll have a swell time here on this visit."

Miss Gale, who is one of the famous quadruplets of San Francisco refused a contract in the new Ziegfeld Follies, in order to appear on the stage with Hoot on this tour. "It gives me a new type of vaudeville experience, which will strengthen my work on the screen," she explains.

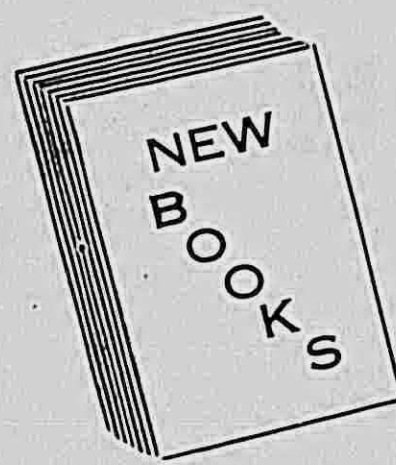

Loop vaudeville, as usual, will be seen this week-end on the Gateway stage.

Stratton Defeated.

While returns from the state are not yet complete William J. Stratton of Ingleside, Republican candidate for state treasurer was defeated, although he carried Lake county by a vote of 19,756 to 14,207 cast for his opponent, John Stelle. It is believed that Stratton's vote in the state will total more than 1,200,000 while his opponent received about 300,000 more.

Shrewd Choice of Pork Cuts Saves Family Meat Bill

Less Costly Portion of Hog Are Found to Be Satisfactory

Shrewd buying on the part of homemakers who know the different kinds of pork cuts will enable Illinois families to maintain satisfactory meat diets this winter, in spite of limited food budgets and rising hog prices, in the opinion of Sleetor Bull, meats specialist at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Pork chop, ham and bacon prices have advanced materially in recent months, but fortunately the hog produces several other cuts of meat which are just as nutritious, nearly as palatable and more economical, it is pointed out.

The picnic, cut from the lower part of the shoulder, may be purchased both cured and fresh as an economical substitute for ham, as it sells for six to eight cents a pound less, says Bull. It contains about 61 per cent lean, 21 per cent fat and 18 per cent waste, while ham consists of 63 per cent lean, 24 per cent fat and 13 per cent waste.

Fresh Boston, as the cut from the upper part of a hog shoulder is called, is a good substitute for a loin roast or for pork chops. In fact, some people prefer it to the loin for roast. The Boston usually costs several cents less than loin, has a larger proportion of lean than any other pork cut, and contains less than 5 per cent waste as compared to an 18-percent loss in the case of loin. Available at many meat markets, boned, cured and smoked, the Boston is often selected instead of ham by many people, regardless of price.

A cheap substitute for high-priced bacon may be bought in the form of jowl bacon or bacon squares which come from the cheek of the hog. These cuts are as good as bacon for cooking with beans or greens and cost about half as much. The bacon end or brisket bacon, somewhat fatter than breakfast bacon, is another good bacon substitute for frying.

Neck bones may be used in place of spareribs at a saving of more than 50 per cent, but it should be remembered that neck bones contain 61 per cent bone, while spareribs average 41 per cent waste. Pork liver, of course, is much heavier than the liver of beef or veal, and when smothered in onions can hardly be distinguished from the more aristocratic veal variety. Sausage is likewise economical because it is reasonable in price and contains no waste.

Another saving can be made by using bacon fryings instead of lard when frying eggs, potatoes and other foods. Bacon fryings are preferred to lard by many home makers because of the additional flavor the fryings give to the food.

Tips on How and What to Improve

Eliminate Cooking Odors

A kitchen ventilating fan will draw out cooking odors and grease laden air is drawn out and does not settle on fabrics and curtains.

Control by Switches

If wall brackets are controlled by switches, many unnecessary 'stops, taken to turn them on and off, are trolled by the same switch.

Brighten up Halls

Dark, old halls and vestibules with saved. Each pair should be con-woodwork finished in dark colors will be remarkably lighter if the woodwork and walls are refinished in light colors.

Oil Window Groove

When a window sash sticks so that it cannot be started by pulling the cords and letting them snap back, lard, soap or oil applied to the grooves will help.

Test Ceiling Plaster

To avoid falling ceilings, any part of the plaster that appears to be bulging should be tested for signs of looseness with the hand or a stick. If the plaster is loose, it should be cut out and the ceiling patched.

Tarpaper Under Concrete

Before laying a concrete floor in a garage, the earth should be covered with one or two thicknesses of tarpaper. This will prevent the concrete from picking up moisture from direct contact with the earth, and hence prevent the garage from being damp and cold.

House Repairs Made Now Saves Fuel Expenses

Handy Man May Fix Home to Keep Out Winter Winds

Illinois farm families who wish to save money on the annual coal bill and at the same time enjoy warm comfort during the cold winter months should begin now to make certain needed repairs about the home, suggests W. A. Foster, rural architecture specialist at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Loose-fitting doors, rattling windows, cracks under the baseboards, in floors and plaster produce drafts and add money to the coal man's purse. All of these are little things which should be fixed before winter comes and, fortunately, require very little material or expense. In most cases, a small amount of time and labor are the chief requirements, points out Foster.

Twenty feet of bronze weather stripping and 30 minutes time will make the door fit like new. A check of the sash and retitting of stops will improve the windows and stop the leaks there. Plaster repairs not only keep the cold air out of the house but improve the appearance of the home. Resetting of the carpet strip or shoe mold will eliminate many floor drafts while gun caulking may be purchased from the building materials dealer and applied with a putty knife or the screw-type grease gun.

All of these minor repairs may be done by the handy man in leisure time at a surprisingly low cost, says Foster. The saving in fuel alone will pay for the materials several times over each year, while the extra comfort and saving in health give added incentive to make the repairs.

Did You Ever Try These Recipes? Do, Please

Molasses Ginger Cookies

2/3 cupful of shortening
1/2 cupful of brown sugar
1/2 cupful of molasses
1/2 cupful of boiling water
1 egg
2 cupfuls of flour
1 teaspoonful of salt
1 teaspoonful of baking powder
1/2 teaspoonful of baking soda
1 teaspoonful of ginger
1 teaspoonful of cinnamon.

Into the mixing bowl put the shortening and sugar and add the boiling water. Mix a little, then let stand until the shortening is melted and the lumps have disappeared from the sugar. Add the molasses, then add the egg and beat well. Finally add the dry ingredients sifted together and beat until the mixture is smooth. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto a greased baking sheet and bake at 350 degrees F. for about 12 minutes. The dough for these cookies is considerably softer than for other dropped cookies, so it is well to try one before cooking the entire lot, to be sure the consistency is just right.

Alexandria Oldest Port

Alexandria, Egypt, is the oldest port in the world. On an island in its bay stood the famous Pharos lighthouse, built in the Third century B. C. Alexandria is 5,000 miles away from New York. It is the main port for Cairo.

The Word "Pamphlet"

The word pamphlet was originally Pamphela, the name of a Greek lady who left behind her a vast quantity of literary material in the form of short notes and essays, and this proved to be of such value that it gave a name to a new style of publication.

Whipping Was Disgrace

To whip an Ohio Indian child as punishment for misbehavior was a disgrace; so the mother, for disciplinary purposes, ducked her offspring in cold water.

Aristotle's Weather Treatise

Aristotle's treatise on weather, written in the Fourth century B. C., became the standard work on the subject for twenty centuries.

Postage Stamps

The post office department says that no postage stamps are legal tender, but all postage stamps since 1861, if in an undamaged condition, are good for postage.

Germs and Antiseptics

There is no one antiseptic that will kill all kinds of germs, says a well-known pharmacologist.

Sulphur From Texas

Texas supplies 90 per cent of America's sulphur.

Dropped Cookies Are Easiest To Make

Dough Must Be of Right Consistency for Success

Dropped cookies are the easiest of all cookies to make. There is no rolling or cutting, no trouble in transferring them to the baking sheet. And yet, by this method, you can make delicious morsels to fill the cookie jar.

The dough for dropped cookies is much like the dough for any other cookies, except that it is softer—so soft that it can be dropped from a teaspoon onto a baking sheet and will spread during baking to give a finished cookie that is round and shapely.

The consistency of the dough is very important, and unfortunately it is almost impossible to state exactly how much liquid and flour to use. The best plan is to reserve several tablespoonfuls of the flour in the recipe, sifting it separately from the rest of the dry ingredients, and add it at the end, using only the amount you need. As soon as it seems thick enough, bake a single cookie to test the dough. If it spreads unduly, you need more flour. If it fails to spread enough, you have used too much flour and a little liquid must be added. But it is better to stop at the right point, in adding the flour, rather than have to upset the proportions by adding extra liquid. When the dough is just right, the cookie spreads so that it is fairly even across its surface.

The following is a recipe for good standard dropped cookies:

2/3 cupful of shortening
1 1/3 cupfuls of sugar
1 egg
1/4 cupful of milk
2 cupfuls of flour
2 teaspoonfuls of baking powder
1/2 teaspoonful of salt
1/2 teaspoonful of vanilla (or a combination of vanilla and lemon extracts).

Cream the shortening thoroughly until it is very soft. Add the sugar gradually, creaming it into the shortening. Add the egg and beat well, until the mixture is almost fluffy. Add the milk and flavoring, and mix well. Add the dry ingredients which have been sifted together, except for the small amount reserved for final addition. Add final portion slowly, testing the dough by baking a single cookie.

When the right consistency is obtained, transfer the dough by teaspoonfuls onto a baking sheet, leaving about 1 1/2 inches between the cookies to allow for spreading. Arranging them in rows makes the best possible use of the space.

Put on the center shelf of a hot oven—400 F. and bake for 10 or 12 minutes, or until delicately browned and done. Remove at once onto a cooling rack, using a spatula and let stand until thoroughly cooled. Then stow away in a tightly covered cookie jar or tin.

Variations.

There are many additions that may be made to standard cookies. Below are some of the very popular variations. Combinations of these may be made too. For instance, nuts may be added to chocolate cookies, dates or raisins to oatmeal ones. These variations are all made by adding the extra material to the dry ingredients, combining well, and finishing just as usual. It is an easy matter to make your own variations according to your favorite combinations.

Raisin and Nut Cookies.

To the dry ingredients for standard cookies, as above, add 1/2 cupful of chopped English walnuts and 1/2 cupful of chopped seedless raisins. Combine well and stir into the mixture just as for standard cookies.

Coconut Cookies.

To the dry ingredients for standard cookies, add 1 1/2 cupfuls of shredded coconut. Finish as for standard cookies.

ARMISTICE DAY

TODAY, when whistles blow, we pause to pay homage to the men who on a distant field and in a country far from home paused the day the Armistice was signed. Sixteen years is time enough to mellow a grief or dim the memory of an heroic deed. In the swift rush of years we adjust ourselves to the actualities of the moment. But is it not right that we should forget what has gone before. For it is on the struggles of the past and the dreams of the future that we build today.

Scrapbook History of Antioch Schools

The seventh and eighth grades have started making a scrapbook history of the Antioch schools, and are looking for interesting material to be placed in its pages. They will welcome any data regarding the local school. The books are to be made loose-leaf style so that additions may be made to the history from time to time, according to Miss Idabel Herwood, teacher. Such a history has not been attempted heretofore, and the pupils and teachers no doubt will receive much encouragement in their project.

Ticket Sales Indicate Success for Junior Play

The advance ticket sales indicate that the Junior Class Play, "Regatta," will be a real success. The tickets are going fast, and those who come will certainly see a grand performance.

The setting of the play, the living room of Mr. Stephen Worthington's summer home on Long Island, demanded elaborate stage furnishings which were secured through the courtesy of the Blumberg Furniture Company of Waukegan.

Clayton Bartlett, the post graduate electrician, devised the beautiful sunlight and moonlight effects, and Kenneth Mortenson of the stage crew made the wind machine.

Mrs. Phillips, director, concluded the work with two dress rehearsals which were attended by Miss Curran and Mr. Stillson, the class advisers, and Mrs. Ruby Richey, who supervised the costuming.

Well, I'll be seeing you at the play tonight or Friday at the high school auditorium.
